

Introduction

After completing the development and testing stages, the FitBuddy application is prepared for finalization.

The finalization stage focuses on organizing the source code, project documentation, screenshots and other project resources.